Boomers moving

BABY Boomers will make up the majority of new Tweed residents in the next decade, although most will still be working and will bring their teenage children.

This was one prediction of demographer Bernard Salt who was a panellist at a special presentation on the economic outlook of the Tweed, held at Salt Village this week.

"The next decade is all about the Baby Boomers and their search for work and lifestyle balance.

"The Tweed needs to plan to attract these new residents or loose them to Noosa or other areas."
